INFORMATION

In 'I Like It Like That,' music journalist Manfred Prescher invites you to travel in time through a period of American musical history. The song selection is absolutely timeless and stands repeated playing, even today. You'll hear old acquaintances like Good Rockin' Tonight, Fever, or See You Later Alligator, but you may also discover new songs you'll remember all your life – like the rockabilly gem Rockin' In Bagdad, a much sought-after item amongst fans, or Carl Mann's Ubangi Stomp, which got almost lost in the shuffle of pop history. In 'I Like It Like That' singing actors like Robert Mitchum and Dean Martin are found next to acting singers like Elvis Presley or Harry Belafonte. Crooners Andy Williams and Rosemary Clooney match well with country artists Don Gibson and Johnny Horton and rock 'n' roll stars Gene Vincent and Bill Haley. It's all in the mix; the tracks merge into each other ignoring stylistic definitions and limits. Manfred Prescher proves it's always worth listening beyond your own comfort zone. People with just a little curiosity will discover that Louis Jordan's Ain't Nobody Here But Us Chickens rocks just as much as Little Richard's The Girl Can't Help It or The Shot Gun Boogie by Tennessee Ernie Ford. 'I Like It Like That' may promote a diverse range of music but the song selection and running order gives an entertaining and harmonious result. The music is packaged luxuriously, befitting these exquisite 'song pralines': a CD playing more than 81 minutes, 32 awesome tracks from the BEAR FAMILY catalog, edited with love and compiled with taste. You'll have to agree when we say – "I like it like that."
