Town Hall Party

'Town Hall Party' was among the first of the country music shows to be seen on U.S. television, making its debut in early 1952 and running until early 1961. Staged every Saturday in a theatre in Compton, a suburb of Los Angeles, the stage was made up to look like an old barn, thus continuing the traditions of the various live shows that were first heard on the radio airwaves three decades earlier.

Although Nashville was fast establishing itself as the commercial home of country music, the West Coast had a vast, ready audience for such a show. The area had first become the new home for the Dust Bowl migrants of the 1930s and, a few years later during the war years, a further influx was made up of workers seeking jobs in the munitions and defence plants. These were all people who loved country music and, consequently, a brand new country scene was born with its own sound, artists, clubs, record labels, radio shows and, in due course, television programmes.

'Town Hall Party' was created with its own cast of regular performers and musicians, boasting a house that was virtually a 'who's who' of the West Coast scene comprising such as Joe Maphis, Merle Travis, Skeets McDonald, Johnny Bond and Tommy Duncan. Jay Stewart (who later hosted the TV quiz show 'Let's Make A Deal'), and Tex Ritter were the MCs. The weekly show presented an equally impressive guest list, attracted both by the show's tremendous popularity but also by the fact that fledgling television was becoming a vitally important media for exposing their talents to brand new audiences. The many guests to appear included Johnny Cash, Patsy Cline, Eddie Cochran, The Collins Kids, Freddie Hart, Wanda Jackson, George Jones, Merle Lindsay, Bob Luman, Carl Perkins, Jim Reeves, Marty Robbins, Hank Snow and Gene Vincent.

With an audience numbering up to 2000, 'Town Hall Party' was first broadcasted live over local radio station KFI, but reached a greater audience when NBC syndicated the show on radio. The broadcast was extended to three hours when KTTV-TV televised the show. The show was so popular that, in 1958, Columbia Records issued the 'Town Hall Party' album featuring various cast members.

Now 'Town Hall Party' is reborn on DVD. Launched in 2002, this continuing DVD series presents both individual artists' performances, compiled from different appearances on 'Town Hall Party', and complete cast shows selected from specific dates. Completely remastered, and presented with full colour booklets, these releases fully captured the atmosphere, artistry and sounds of a bygone country music age.

Obwohl ich diese Art von Musik eigentlich nicht wirklich mag, hat mir diese DVD viel Spaß gemacht. Jenks Carman wird nicht zu unrecht als der erste alternative Country-Star bezeichnet. Mit seiner waagrecht gehaltenen akustischen Gitarre und Metallkappen auf den Fingern spielt er einen unnachahmlichen, bizarren Stil und reißt das Publikum immer wieder zu Zwischenapplaus hin.

With such important performances by artists still in their formative stages combined with shots of the (integrated!) audience, such shows are much more than mere time capsules; they are vital documents of American roots music history.

Kels Koch, No DEPRESSION, JULY-AUGUST 2002

Almost 70 minutes of vintage Johnny Cash from 1958 and 1959 editions of the famed West Coast 'Town Hall Party' TV show. The nearest thing to heaven, indeed!

Trevor Cajiao, Now DIG THIS

If there's a holy grail of rockabilly music, outside of the tracks cut at Sam Phillips' Sun studio in Memphis that is, I would say that these various TV performances by a few of the originals would come about as close as anything to qualifying.

The rare Robbins appearances from a 1959 show tend to emphasize his more pop vocal drama side than rockabilly or country, but there's a terrific bonus in the chance to see Tompall & the Glaser Brothers both as Robbins' waa-waa backup and in several numbers of their own.

I make no apologies for giving every Town Hall release a five star rating thus far. These recordings are not just vital as country music history, but take us back to an age when television was naive, unsophisticated, charming and full of magic.

Craig Baguley, COUNTRY MUSIC PEOPLE, JULY 2004

In each of the three shows there is a lot variety, with instruments, soulfull ballads, spirituals, a twist of the emerging rock 'n' roll explosion, some typical cornball humour and of course, plenty of solid, traditional country music.

Larry Kelly, MAVERICK, AUGUST 2004

Documenti sicuramente interessanti e immancabili nella videoteca di ogni appassionato del genere hillbilly, country e primo rockabilly.

Mauro Maiotti, JAMBOREE No. 43

These three discs are a wonderful slice of musical history. They're also exceptionally entertaining. Two solid reasons for purchasing all three volumes - and indeed the rest of the series which now numbers some nineteen in total (so far).

Howard Cockburn, NOW DIG THIS, 4/2005

Town Hall Party is great fun (I can't wait for the episode announced by Jay Stewart: "In three weeks from tonight, we're going to have a gay '90s night ...") Combined - mostly - with fine music, this series should be on every country music fan's shopping list. The performances may not be pitch-perfect, but they're laced with heart and soul.
